WHY A TRIGARD LINED BURIAL VAULT?

MORE LAYERS + ARCH COVER DESIGN = MORE PROTECTION

The daily use of heavy cemetery equipment combined with the pure gravity of the earth exerts a force that far exceeds what an unprotected casket, concrete box or other single-layer burial container can handle.

No Outer Container

Concrete Grave Liner

Lined, Sealed Concrete Burial Vault

A backhoe can weigh up to 14,000 pounds. An impact load is produced by the dropping of a backhoe bucket and exerts an even stronger force throughout the soil.

THE TRIGARD FAMILY

Family-owned, customer focused

The Darby family, Charles and Florence Darby along with their two sons, James and David, moved to Danville, Illinois, in 1960 after purchasing Sunset Memorial Park. Trigard/Greenwood Inc. was founded in the late 1960s in an effort to increase the size of the existing business, which consisted of two cemeteries and a burial vault company.

When it came to memorialization, Trigard's founder James "Big Jim" Darby, always believed "there has to be more..." A born entrepreneur, an idea sparked when Big Jim heard about thermoforming of polymers.

The new polymer liners were a tad shorter than the old fiberglass ones which made them sturdy enough for safe transportation. Through research and study, the Darby brothers introduced the arched cover design as well as added dimension which vastly improved the overall product. The company trade name was born, Trigard, for the three layers of protection a Trigard burial vault provides.

It wasn't long before Big Jim introduced another unique product to the burial vault industry. Trigard's Aegean® burial vault is still in a class of its own. It offers three layers of protection, an elegant look of refined marble and is still affordable. Custom Appliqués add personalization to the burial vault, another innovation introduced by Trigard to the industry.

The Darby family not only manufactures Trigard burial vaults, but also uses them as funeral home owners. Sunset Funeral Home opened in December 1984 as one of the first funeral home/cemetery combinations in the state of Illinois. At the time, the combination operation was illegal in most states. Big Jim helped change the legislation that allowed the partnership of services to become a reality. The Darby family and Trigard have since expanded the company to include ownership and operation of seven funeral homes in Illinois, Indiana and Arizona.

Big Jim's vision continues on through three of his children, current owners Donna Darby-Walthall, Chief Financial Officer; Linda Darby, Chief Executive Officer; and Rich Darby, Chief Operating Officer. His other two children, Karen Darby-Ritz and Scott Darby, have also joined the business along with several of his grandchildren, furthering his dream of a lasting legacy.
